Course 1 Description

Inclusive Dentistry: Building a Team and Practice for Neurodiversity

Dentistry is not just about teeth. It is about the person and their environment that can make or break the experience of a patient at the dentist. In an outside-the-box workshop, Dr. Dent offers alternatives for creating a sensory-friendly dental practice and team.

By the end of this program, the dental professional will be able to:

- Review all eight senses
- Discuss alternative options to adapt the dental environment to be more sensory friendly
- Discuss noninvasive dental treatment options and materials

Course 2 Description

Ultrasonic Instrumentation: The Science of Technology to Advance Your Technique

In recent years, ultrasonic technology has advanced, resulting in improved clinical outcomes while also reducing the clinician's stresses. However, for the clinician to enjoy these benefits they need to optimize the performance of the units by modifying their technique. This course will help participants understand current ultrasonic technology and teach clinical modifications necessary to maximize the potential of ultrasonics and promote positive tissue and periodontal changes.

By the end of this program, the dental professional will be able to:

- Understand ultrasonic technology to enhance technique
- Unleash the power of knowledge and skill
- Differentiate ultrasonic inserts and their usage

Course 3 Description

Understanding Insurance Participation to Maximize Revenue

In this course we will discuss several related topics such as Private Practice Challenges, Insurance Contracting Options, Goals and Strategies, and Revenue Impact of Decisions.

By the end of this program, the dental professional will be able to:

- Understand the various contracting options for insurance networks/PPO
- Understand the impact of each option on the practice
- Implement goals and strategies that maximize revenue from insurance

Course 4 Description

HIPAA & OSHA Compliance: Stay Safe, Stay Smart, Stay Compliant

In today's rapidly evolving environment, where infections and diseases pose ongoing risks, it is essential to follow strict protocols to prevent the spread of microbes, viruses, and germs. Additionally, maintaining proper water quality is crucial in safeguarding health and safety.

Organizations that handle, use, or disclose protected health information (PHI) must ensure compliance with HIPAA regulations. Failure to properly manage PHI can have serious consequences for both patients and the organizations responsible for data security breaches.

By adhering to these guidelines, organizations can promote a safer, more secure environment for both patients and staff as well as meet your licensing requirements.

By the end of this program, the dental professional will be able to:

- Recognize the fundamental need for regulatory compliance.
- Establish clear protocols for both in-office and off-site procedures.
- Prioritize water maintenance to mitigate health risks.
- Understand patient privacy laws and related regulations.
- Identify and report any suspected or confirmed HIPAA violations.
